Objectives

Indians foreign policy reflects the philosophy of India as a sovereign democratic nation and the self-image and role she conceives for herself in the global policies. The Focus of this paper is the theoretical perspective of the role of the compulsion constraints and conditions which actually has framed the country's foreign policy for the past five decades and on this basis considers the projections for the future. It also specifically focuses on the challenges of the contemporary times such as globalization, liberalization, cross border terrorism, human, rights, environmental and gender concerns and the like and India's stance pertaining to these issues.

Objectives

Social economics, cultural and humanitarian concerns have come to the forefront relegating issues of Security to the background in the most well established democracies in the post code war period. These concerns also find their advocates in the relatively underdeveloped countries of the third world. There is a need to examine to what extent are these concerns new or are they a redefinition of old ideas with a fresh look. The objective of this paper is to examine critically these concerns & analyze their impact on the course of world politics and policy - Making individual countries.

Objectives

India's diversity in terms of socio-economic political & cultural system provides unusual opportunity for the study of Indian center-state system comparatively. This paper attempts to study the power of the center & the autonomy of the state within the India Federal system, which reflect & articulate well-defined regional identities. There is an increasing need to understand that despite the wide array of powers, with which the center is armed by the constitution, there has been a growing trend of assertion of autonomy on the part of the states. The center-state relationship in the context of liberalization also needs to be focused.
